

The City of Maricopa Economic Development Department is dedicated to helping entrepreneurs and small businesses locate the assistance they need to be successful in the community. We recognize that the majority of new jobs across the country are created by small businesses, often ones already present in the local community.

In working with small business and entrepreneurs, the role of the City of Maricopa's economic development department is to act as an advocate for the business community, a source of assistance in understanding City processes and policies, and an information clearinghouse of resources and contacts specializing in various areas of business growth. The department operates under a "no wrong door" policy, which means that it is our mission to put those needing assistance in touch with the right resources, no matter which "door" they enter from.
